Shooting for Lilliput Gin – I do love it on the beach – it’s just the “sand and camera gear” that makes to hairs on the back of my neck stand on edge!

Shooting for Lilliput Gin.

We set to work shooting the studio setups, then took the bottles to the beach. It’s amazing how many bottles of Gin (actually water for the shoot) I could have sold on the beach with all the dog walkers approaching me asking about this new product and where it was from and when it becomes available and from where… So here’s a little info for those dog walkers I promised to post this blog.

More about Lilliput.

In January 2017, Lilliput Dorset Gin emerged from a desire to create a product that captured the invigorating spirt of summer on the Dorset coast, lost in the fresh sea air an escape from the daily dramas of life back to something more real, the simpler, refreshing and timeless beauty of life on the Jurassic coastline of Dorset.

Everything we do at Lilliput Dorset Gin, including and the way we work with our suppliers, customers and partners is about bringing that spirt to life with an emphasis on Quality, Clarity and Escape. We believe in equality and collaboration, in supporting small businesses, entrepreneurs, ideas and innovation in our industry and beyond.

Lilliput Dorset Gin is distilled with pride in Dorset from our very own home-grown organic Rosemary, organic Basil from Egypt, organic Thyme from Spain and organic fresh water fermented Kalamata Olives from Greece. For us, this combination of tastes and aromas evoke the feeling of being by the coast and best capture our desire to escape to the Dorset coastline.
